1865? Emigrated to Utah and settled in Provo Valley (Wasatch County), according to Lebbeus, Jr. He told of a 19-year-old named Thomas Manning in their camp who was shot by Indians at Pine Bluff, Wyoming, and carried back to camp by Libbeus Coons and others (Told to Vendela Coons before Lebbeus, Jr., died.)

Coons says they settled there in 1867 (Sevier Stake Memories); his history in the county sheriff's office - he was an early sheriff - says they came in 1872, when he was 19. Perhaps they were among the settlers who fled, and then lived in Salem until 1872.

Considering Libbeus' death date and the ease of mistyping Jun for Jan, 22 Jan seems to be the best date presently available.)

CHRONOLOGY OF L. T. COONS

Additional Items

According to Kirtland Elders' Quorum Record, 1836-1841, ed. Lyndon Cook and Milton V. Backman, Libbeus migrated to Missouri and later helped to build Nauvoo. His obituary (Deseret Evening News 21:377, 27 July 1872) supports the former item, but I have no further information. He apparently was not a member of the Kirtland Camp which went to Missouri in 1837.
